Proceedings of the Chief Commissioner of Mysore, Judicial Department, 19th March 1879.

Report on the Administration of Criminal Justice in Mysore for the year 1878.

REVIEW BY THE CHIEF COMMR. No. 2468—461 J., DATED 19TH JUNE 1879.

The number of offences reported as was anticipated shews a very great decrease upon the abnormal proportions of 1877, the 16,128 cases being nearly on a par with the number reported in 1876. It is further satisfactory to notice how great the decrease has been in grave offences such as dacoity and robbery, the numbers being 549 and 311 for 1877 and 215 and 166 for 1878. Still the number of cases of this description is sufficiently high to cause anxiety and especially in the Nundydroog Division. In 1875 there were but 41 dacoities and 57 robberies reported; it is very evident therefore that considerable improvement is required before that security for life and property which existed before the late famine can be restored.

2. With fewer cases to dispose of, the courts were able, as was to be expected, to shew a much more satisfactory pending file than at the end of 1877, and there is an improvement in the detention of witnesses, few having been detained beyond three days, but although 5·65 days average duration of trials is not high, it would have been satisfactory to have found the courts able to decrease this, and the Chief Commissioner regrets to observe that in one Magistrate's Court the average duration is as much as 11 days. The number of persons brought to trial is stated in para 12 of the report to have been 30,132, but in the table given in para 13 the number is 31,631, the reason of this discrepancy should have been explained.

3. As remarked by the Judicial Commissioner in his 16th para, the low percentage of convictions is probably due to hasty entertainment of cases which will not bear investigation. It is contemplated to introduce a modification in the constitution of the subordinate magistracy which it is hoped will raise its status and improve efficiency.

4. In the punishments awarded it is noteworthy that whipping has been administered in 1,660 cases which is a considerable decrease upon the 4,196 cases of 1877. In the matter of imposition and realization of fines, the Chief Commissioner regrets to observe that the report is far from satisfactory. Only 46 per cent of the fines imposed during the year has been recovered and the recoveries of fines imposed in previous years is altogether insignificant. There is thus a large and ever increasing balance of unrecovered fines. This is not as it should be, and it is feared that both injudicious imposition of fines, impossible to levy, by the Courts, and laxity in execution by the Police contribute to this unsatisfactory result. The special attention of Magistrates and Police will be invited to this subject; and the Chief Commissioner trusts that future years will exhibit a marked improvement.

5. The statistics of appeal are worthy of note, for out of about 12,000 persons convicted by 2nd and 3rd Class Magistrates only 478 appealed, while out of about 1,000 persons convicted by Sessions Courts and Magistrates exercising enhanced powers under section 36 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 569 appealed to the Judicial Commissioner, but of the latter only 11 per cent succeeded in obtaining a reversal of sentence to 54 per cent of the former. It appears therefore that against heavy sentences appeal is resorted to very largely whether there is any chance of success or not, but on the other hand the light sentences of the Taluk Magistrates are often submitted to when known to be unmerited.

Proceedings of the Chief Commissioner of Mysore, Judicial Department, 19th June 1879.

Report on Civil Justice in Mysore for 1878.

CHIEF COMMR.'S REVIEW, No. 2469—462, DATED 19TH JUNE 1879.

The very rapid recovery in the number of suits instituted testifies to the returning prosperity of the Province, which is further exemplified by one or two details given in the Judicial Commissioner's report, for instance although by far the largest proportional increase has occurred in the Munsiff's Courts, the average value of each suit instituted has still advanced a little and the Bangalore Court of Small Causes—in which there is however a slight decrease in the number of suits filed—had 3,218 suits for disposal during the latter half of the year against only 2,775 in the first half. It is observed that the total number of suits instituted, 21,509 in all, is greater by 4,168 than the number in 1877 and is only 3,543 behind the number in 1875, before the late famine had crippled the commercial prosperity of the State.

2. The working of the Civil Courts is shewn to be a great improvement upon that of the previous year and is generally satisfactory, and the fact that 80·4 per cent of the suits decided were decided in favor of the plaintiff goes towards shewing that the people do not without cause resort to the courts for settlement of their disputes. The total number of suits for disposal was 23,059, and the pending file throughout the Province only exhibits 1,427 undisposed of at the end of the year. Of these moreover only 14 were over 4 months on the file, the average duration for contested suits being 29·33 days and for uncontested suits 21·27 days.

3. These results certainly compare well with the year 1877 when there were 170 pending suits of over 4 months (out of a total of 1,554) and when the average duration of contested suits was 55 days and of uncontested suits 31 days. In the Courts of the Munsiffs and Judicial Assistant Commissioners the improvement is very marked and satisfactory. In those of the Commissioners and Deputy Commissioners there is also very great improvement, and though the duration of suits in those courts is still long, the Chief Commissioner believes that the causes are to a great extent the same as those operating in the Judicial Commissioner's own Court. The number of suits is small, but their nature is complicated. Greater promptness in disposing of work has also been displayed in the Appellate Courts, the duration of whose cases averaged 41 days against 78 in 1877.

4. The Chief Commissioner cannot but regret to observe the large number of applications for execution which were received during the year, numbering 24,970 in all. It is true that only 50 per cent were satisfied either in full or in part through process of the courts and that the number of processes issued either against the person or against property is greatly in excess of the number actually enforced, yet the instances in which movable and immovable property have been sold in satisfaction of decrees have increased from 591 to 845 and from 984 to 1,859 respectively, facts which are not quoted as reflecting upon the courts but exhibiting the poverty of the people. Instances are given in the report where execution cases are allowed to hang over the judgment-debtors an unduly long time and it is to be hoped that they will not be allowed to recur aggravating as they do hardships which however unavoidable are always to be regretted.

5. The concluding remarks of the Judicial Commissioner's lucid and concise report briefly summarized the orders and regulations issued for the conduct of civil work during the year, and the Chief Commissioner is satisfied that the general commendation which he is pleased to notice Mr. Sandford is able to bestow upon the staff under him is an expression of opinion arrived at after careful and minute supervision of the civil work of the Province.

6. Both for the work done in his own court and for the examination of subordinate courts and the general control exercised over their proceedings, Mr. Sandford has merited the Chief Commissioner's hearty thanks.

Proceedings of the Chief Commissioner of Mysore, Judicial Department, 19th June 1879.

Annual Report on the Administration of Jails in Mysore in 1878.

REVIEW BY THE CHIEF COMMR., No. 2470—J. 463, DATED 19TH JUNE 1879.

The Inspector General of Jails is to be congratulated on the punctuality of this report. That for 1877 was sent in so late and was received at such an inconvenient time when the Government Press was overwhelmed with work that it was not printed until February of this year. It was of no practical use to review a report so long after the period to which it related, and so it has happened that no Review of the report on jails for 1877 was issued.

2. The report for 1877 told a lamentable tale of jails crowded with prisoners of miserable physique, full hospitals and a high death-rate. The report for 1878 shews that the tide has turned, and it thus gives hope for the future, but at the same time the sad tale is continued; in some parts it is intensified.

3. The total jail population of 19,772 displays a sensible diminution upon the 27,823 of 1877, but an average daily strength of 4,855 compared with 5,063 testifies to heavier sentences on the average, and shews that the crowded state of the jails has not been so largely relieved as would at first sight seem to be the case. That matters mended as the year grew older, however, can be seen from the fact that the number of prisoners on the last day of the year had fallen to 3,804, which is 1,000 under the daily average. This is indeed the one redeeming feature in what is otherwise a most melancholy report, and it is to be observed that but for the large number of prisoners released, the returns would have been still more deplorable.

4. These releases which numbered 923 in all, were made for the most part in accordance with time-honored native custom. Advantage was taken of the occasion of the marriage of His Highness the Maha Raja of Mysore to release many who had been convicted of robbery and theft during the calamity of the famine. Others were made conditionally in regard to the peculiar circumstances of the convicts who had resorted to crime under the dire pressure of severe famine, and who were thus allowed by good conduct and satisfactory work to redeem part of their sentences. The plan however, though it seemed to promise well, did not answer the expectations formed of it, the health of the convict gangs was not good, and it is reported that two convicts returned to jail preferring to work out their full time there.

5. The most noticeable feature in the report is the state of health of the prisoners, but there are one or two other circumstances which call for remark. In connection with the sentencing courts, it is satisfactory to find that the percentage of simple imprisonments has fallen from 12 to 8. Inside the jails it is noteworthy that the conduct of the incarcerated has been very good notwithstanding that the proportion of re-committals has increased. Only 6·6 per cent of the prisoners were punished for breach of jail discipline; the re-committals numbered 4·87 of the jail population against 2·6 in 1877.

6. An increase in re-committals, if it is not due to more careful registration, is not a hopeful sign, and the great difficulty in the jail administration appears to be to make the imprisonment sufficiently punitive and to award distinctive punishments to the different classes of criminals. This has been particularly felt during seasons when it was difficult to obtain a livelihood out of jail. Common humanity demands that the prisoners shall be housed, clothed and fed sufficiently, and it was impossible while doing this not to make their lot preferable in some degree to that of many who had not broken the law. The natural result is to afford an inducement to transgress, and though this was checked to some extent by awarding corporal punishment wherever possible in lieu of imprisonment, and by reducing the diet of the prisoners as far as could safely be done, it could not be altogether prevented.

7. In spite of every care the death-rate in the jails during 1878 has been truly lamentable. The debilitated condition of the people on admission was such that sickness and death were inseparable attendants of the inmates of the jails, and the death-rate was 27 per cent of the whole number imprisoned, an increase of 4 per cent on the number in 1877 even, and a higher rate by 23 per cent than in 1876. The extraordinary increase in mortality is well shewn in the report of the Bangalore Central Jail where 234 died during the year. In 1875 the number of deaths was but 7.

8. The reason of this very abnormal death-rate is seen from several circumstances; the causes of death were principally debility, diarrhœa and ulcers, the same diseases which carried off the majority of the inmates of famine hospitals during 1877 and the early part of 1878. Three-quarters of the deaths occurred during the first year's imprisonment, and the returns for the latter months of the year shew a very marked improvement when compared with those in the first months.

9. The employment of convicts as warders and other petty officers in jails is carried on with good results, and the Chief Commissioner has now under consideration proposals for developing the system by means of rules under which good conduct on the part of those so employed will earn remission of a proportion of sentence and a small gratuity on discharge.

10. In the second part of the Judicial Commissioner's report which treats of individual jails, the Chief Commissioner's attention has been attracted by the great diversity in the cost of prisoners in the several jails and lock-ups of the different Districts, and to the fact that notwithstanding an improvement during the year in the price of provisions, the cost per head has in some cases increased considerably. The Judicial Commissioner's attention is invited to the following comparative statements:—

Jail.	Cost per head of Prisoners.		Lock-ups	Cost per head of Prisoners.
	In 1877.	In 1878.		In 1877.	In 1878.
	Rs.	Rs.		Rs.	Rs.
Bangalore Central ...	97	78	Bangalore District ...	72	97
Kolar District ...	63	95	Kolar do ...	37	52
Túmkúr do ...	134	103	Túmkúr do ..	77	87
Mysore do ...	102	90	Mysore do ...	97	141
Hassan do ...	102	93	Hassan do ...	118	122
Shimoga do ..	111	93	Shimoga do ...	121	117
Kadur do ...	181	129	Kadur do ...	120	9
Chitaldroog do ...	78	80	Chitaldroog do ...	74	7

The reason for these different rates and the cause of the cost in Taluk Lock-ups being so much greater in some Districts than in the District Jails should be ascertained. The Chief Commissioner fears that in Lock-ups there must exist opportunities for misappropriation and peculation, and desires to be informed what precautions are taken to ensure that the sums charged for maintenance are actually expended on the prisoners and do not find their way in part to the pockets of those in charge.

Proceedings of the Chief Commissioner of Mysore, Judicial Department, 19th June 1879.

From the Acting Chief Secretary to the Government of Madras, Judicial Department, To the Chief Commissioner of Mysore, No. 1183, dated Ootacamund, 20th May 1879.

I am directed by His Grace the Governor in Council to forward, for your consideration, copy of a letter from the Honorary Secretary to the Wynad Planters' Association, stating that the fee of seven rupees fixed for the execution in Mysore of warrants issued by Magistrates in the Madras Presidency under Act XIII of 1859 is too high, and to request that you will inform this Government whether, on the representation of the Wynad Planters' Association, you see any reason to reduce the amount of Rupees 7 as suggested in their letter.

From the Honorary Secretary to the Wynad Planters' Association, South Wynad, To the Acting Chief Secretary to Government, dated Vyteri, 23rd April 1879.

The Deputy Collector of Wynad has furnished this Association with a copy of the Proceedings of Government, No. 2555, dated 18th December 1878.

2. I am directed by the Committee to bring to the notice of His Grace the Governor in Council that they are at a loss to understand how such a large expenditure as Rupees 7 can be required for the serving of a warrant in the Mysore Territory. This sum was the process fee originally instituted, but which was subsequently considerably modified, and the Committee respectfully protest against a return to what is in fact a prohibitory rate.

3. In the case of an absconding cooly a warrant can be obtained to Palghat or Coimbatore, districts which may fairly be named as equi-distant from Wynad with Mysore, for one rupee, and the Committee cannot but think that an extra fee of one rupee for the execution of warrants in Mysore would be ample to meet any reasonable charges that may become payable.

4. I am desired to point out that, whilst the average advance which is made to a Mysore cooly for ten months' work in the Wynad rarely exceeds five or six rupees, the process fee was levied at over more than double the cost to the Planter of an absconding cooly, whilst it by no means ensures his arrest and return to the estate.

No. 2493—JUDL., 24 DATED BANGALORE, 19TH JUNE 1879.

ORDER.—The above is circulated for report from Deputy Commissioners giving the number of warrants of arrest under Act XIII of 1859 that have been received since the issue of Proceedings No. 8761—12, dated 21st January 1879, with the expenditure actually incurred in each case.

2. In case of Districts in which no warrants have been received, or in which the number received is so small as not to admit of a conclusion being drawn regarding the average cost of executing the same, the District Magistrate is requested to state what in his opinion, based upon such grounds as may be obtainable, would be the average cost of the escort and diet in conveying an arrested person from his District to the Wynad.

Proceedings of the Chief Commissioner of Mysore, Judicial Department, 21st June 1879.

Annual Report on the Administration of Police in Mysore during the year 1878.

REVIEW BY THE CHIEF COMMR., No. 2583—28 J., DATED 21ST JUNE 1879.

The year 1878 commenced with the necessity for entertaining additional Police in all Districts but Bangalore still existing, but improving prospects and decreasing crime allowed this addition to the force to be dispensed with after two months. The number thus entertained was 5 officers and 458 men, and the expense incurred was Rs. 5,219.

2. Towards the end of the year vacancies in the lower grades were allowed to occur in order to make room for sepoys of the Local Infantry Regiment which was being disbanded. The regular Police therefore has been slightly below the strength of the former year. This and other circumstances have effected a reduction in expenditure amounting to one lakh and 33 thousand rupees. The total strength of the force was 4,661 officers and men, the cost was Rs. 5,44,630.

3. There was at the same time a considerable decrease in the work to be done. Cognizable cases for investigation numbered 13,950 in place of 19,724 in 1877. But the Police were employed in 442 non-cognizable cases, a number somewhat in excess of the number investigated in 1877.

4. In some ways however the decrease in work was not really so great as the above statement makes it appear to have been, for certain classes of grave crime, which are troublesome of detection and cause anxiety to the Police, increased in 1878, such as murder by poisoning, robbery by administration of noxious drugs, causing hurt with deadly weapons, and organized dacoity; the latter being specially prevalent in the Túmkúr District.

5. It is satisfactory then to find that notwithstanding certain adverse conditions to which allusion will be made, the efforts of the Police to prevent and detect crime compare on the whole favorably with the results of previous years. The measures taken to cope with the growth of the crime of robbery by administration of noxious drugs are reported to have almost exterminated the offence, and, in Túmkúr, at least one notorious gang of dacoits was run down and brought to justice. It should be remembered too that though the records of crime compare so favorably with 1877, the work is still double that which had to be done in 1875, and 1876 was a year in which crime had risen abnormally high.

6. The percentage of cases prosecuted to conviction on those found to be true at Police investigation, is shewn in the statement given in para 21 of the report to have generally increased and to have been over 90 per cent in half the Districts. In Kolar only is the percentage much below what it was in 1877 and much below what it should be. The statements in paras 37 and 38, too, shew that in most cases there has been an increase in the percentage of convictions to persons put on trial.

7. It is however doubtful how far these statements can be relied on. The number of persons put upon trial is of course always less than the number arrested, yet in several instances the percentage of convictions to persons put upon trial is said to be less than the percentage of convictions to persons arrested. This is of course impossible.

8. The recovery of stolen property does not shew a satisfactory return. It is true that the value of the property lost is habitually exaggerated, and there are peculiar facilities in this country for the disposal of stolen property, the Police having no control whatever over persons exercising the calling of pawn broker, still a falling off of 7 per cent from the proportion recovered in the year before is not good, and that this is in part at least the fault of the Police may be inferred from the very different proportions recovered in different Districts, ranging from 46¼ per cent in Mysore Town to 14½ per cent in Mysore District, and further from the circumstance that in this as in almost every particular the returns of the Mysore District are the worst. Precautions should be taken to test in all cases as rigidly as possible, the asserted value of the property lost, and to enter the value which is believed to be true, so far as can be ascertained, not implicitly to accept the statements as first made.

9. Neither the internal condition of the force nor the measures taken during the year for its improvement are very satisfactory. The report shews that compared with the preceding year, punishments had increased and rewards were fewer, resignations and desertions had risen, while the health of the men was indifferent, and it had not been possible to resume education which had been stopped by the urgent need for active employment of all the members during the famine. These unsatisfactory results arose, the Chief Commissioner is aware, from causes beyond the control of the Inspector General; they exhibit however a condition of affairs which will demand earnest and energetic remedial measures.

Secretary.

No. 721-731—Rev. 102, dated Bangalore, 2nd June 1879.

Order.—In connection with the remissions of arrears which had to be sanctioned to the former Toddy Contractors of the Nundydroog Division and the Mysore District, the Chief Commissioner deems it necessary to remark on the laxity of management which has permitted the contractors to fall so greatly in arrears, and to a certain extent rendered unavoidable the grant of the remissions. When the arrears are allowed to accumulate to large amounts, the prospects of their recovery become doubtful and remissions become more or less unavoidable. The Chief Commissioner must insist on strict punctuality in future in the realization of the Government demand according to the khists provided for in the contracts. District Officers may be apt to imagine that there is no risk in allowing the arrears to accumulate to the extent of the security deposited by the contractors. The Chief Commissioner must however remind them that the security is intended chiefly to cover losses which may result from the resale of the contract in the event of the failure of the contractors, and that it is therefore important that the security should not be allowed to be trenched upon to meet arrears. This object can only be attained by collecting the khists punctually as they fall due. The District Officers should see to this, and in the event of the khist due for any month not being paid up by the end of the month following, they should at once obtain orders for resorting to measures of distraint.

From the Secretary to the Chief Commissioner of Mysore, Revenue Department, To the Secretary to the Government of India, Foreign Dept., No. 2646—Rev. 45, dated 25th June 1879.

With reference to the correspondence noted in the margin, I am directed by the Chief Commissioner to state that on a further consideration, it appears to him that Inam title-deeds are not liable to stamp duty. These deeds were regarded as conveyances and so held liable to the duty, but the revised Stamp Act I of 1879 now distinctly defines conveyances to be transfers of property on sale. From the title-deeds, forms of which have already been forwarded with this Office letter No. 5332—10 R., dated 12th October 1878, it will be seen that the transactions involved in the Inam settlement and recorded in the title-deeds are not of the nature of sales. They cannot even be regarded as gifts as no new grants in gift are thereby made. There is first an acknowledgment of the already existing right of the grantee to the tenure, and secondly, whenever the inams are enfranchised, there is the renunciation of the reversionary rights of the Government in the inams in consideration of an additional quit-rent stipulated to be paid. No stamp is provided in the Act for the former, and the renunciation of the Government claims on the inams could only fall under the head of "Release," No. 54 of Schedule I, which is exempt from stamp duty when Government is the executor of the document.

Proceedings of the Chief Commissioner of Mysore, General Department, 13th June 1879.

From the Staff Veterinary Surgeon, Madras Army, To the Secretary to the Chief Commissioner of Mysore, General Department, No. 29, dated Ootacamund, 28th May 1879.

Under instruction from the Government of Madras I have the honor to request you will, with the concurrence of the Chief Commissioner, favour me with the following information, vide queries enclosed, with a view to advising Government in the distribution of stallion donkeys in the Southern Districts of Madras, and in Mysore, for the purpose of breeding mules for the use of the State.

Owing to the difficulty in providing mules in sufficient numbers for transport and general military purposes for requirement on the N. W. frontier, the Government of India has suggested the trial of mule breeding experiments in the Southern Presidency, and I am directed to collect all necessary information with the view to establish and foster the industry among the ryots.

QUERIES.

1. Do you anticipate any prejudices of caste or religion against the introduction of mule breeding among the Natives of Mysore ?

2. What are the best Districts in Mysore, i. e., those in which small mares and pony mares are to be found ?

3. Could you say (approximately) the number of mares in each District or Division ?

4. What would be the best stations for the stallions to stand at, or itinerate from, for the purpose of serving mares ?

5. Would the ryots sell the produce to Government at fair remunerative prices during the first, second and third years of age ?

6. Do you think prizes or gratuities would be a stimulus towards fostering the industry ?

7. Would there be any prejudice against castrating the young male stock: the operation to be performed gratuitously by a Government operator ?

No. 2336—GENL. 40, DATED 13TH JUNE 1879.

ORDER.—The foregoing letter and the questions appended to it are circulated for early report by each Deputy Commissioner so far as his District is concerned, giving as approximately as possible the statistical information asked for in the 2nd question.

2. The Commissioners of Ashtagram and Nagar and the Military Assistant are also requested to supply what information they can on the subject, and give an opinion on the subject of the 4th question.

Secretary.

Proceedings of the Chief Commissioner of Mysore, General Department, 21st June 1879.

READ—

Docket No. 55, dated 29th May 1879, from Compiler, Mysore Gazette, submitting for instructions docket No. 125 of the 23rd idem from the Deputy Commissioner, Hassan District, forwarding a proclamation for insertion in the Mysore Gazette, and remarking that the trifling value of the articles do not seem to justify the expense of publishing so long a list, &c.

No. 2394—436, DATED BANGALORE, 16TH JUNE 1879.

ORDER.—Apparently the District Magistrate of Hassan was acting under a misapprehension in stating that the proclamation which he sent with his docket No. 125 of the 23rd May 1879 to the Compiler, Mysore Gazette, was issued under Section 416 of the Criminal Procedure Code. The proclamation seems to refer to property left by a deceased person and unclaimed by his heirs which has been taken possession of by the Magistrate under Rule 19 of the Police Rules, but not property which has been seized by the Police on suspicion of its being stolen property, to which the provisions of Sections 416 and 417 of the Criminal Procedure Code relate.

2. In any case however the publication of the proclamation is not required by law to be made in the Gazette. In special cases it would be advisable to publish such proclamations in that manner, but in the present instance there is no necessity.

3. In future, District Magistrates wishing to publish in the Gazette, proclamations relating to unclaimed property, will submit the proclamation, with their reasons for wishing so to publish it, for the orders of the Chief Commissioner, to the Secretary, General Department.
